

HONORING OUR EQUESTRIAN HERITAGE

On July 5, 2011, the final steps were taken toward renaming the Sully-Miller Equestrian Arena after Mara Brandman, the late OPA leader and City of Orange Planning Commissioner, who lead the effort to establish the Arena as an equestrian facility for the people of Orange.

Attending the unveiling of the rendering for the future Mara Brandman Horse Arena sign were, left to right: Jed and Jordan Brandman, Orange Mayor Carolyn Cavecche, Michael and Pam Brandman, Elliot Forrester, and Joshua Brandman.

The signage for the new Mara Brandman Horse Arena is part of a gift from the John and Leilani Martin family, owners of the Arena. The signage is under construction and scheduled for installation later this year.

